Tearing Down Barriers: A Different Kind of Diversity Workshop
March 10, 2005

NGCSU is hosting a workshop designed to provide a safe environment to foster an open and frank discussion between you and another person who is quite different from you. Chaplain Carol Highsmith from Ft Jackson, S. C., will facilitate the event. She will begin by addressing the student body from 12:30-2. The workshop will be held from 2-3:30 and then she will speak to the student body again at 4:15. Your absence from classes will be excused as participating in a school-sanctioned event. We appreciate your interest in being a participant in this event. Space is limited, so please return this form ASAP to the Gay-Straight Alliance, NGCSU Box 8443. The workshop is open to all students, faculty and staff, but priority will be given to students. We appreciate that the following questions may be personal and you may choose to not answer any of them, however each one is necessary to determine how you can best benefit from your participation. If any question does not apply to you, please place N/A in the blank. We have not included choices for many of the following questions because we prefer that you identify yourself in your own words.
